

Author: brian

Explore the streets of Clerkenwell, where monks met their death, and Wat Tyler and Lenin formented revolution

1. The World's First Tube Line, Off Faringdon Road

The first Underground Line in the world was opened here in 1863

Notes:

2. Janet Street Porters House, Britton Street, Clerkenwell, London

The house designed by Piers Gough for Janet Street-Porter

Notes:

3. The Clerk's Well, Well Court, Clerkenwell, London

The well that gave Clerkenwell it's name can be seen here.

Notes:

4. St James Church, Clerkenwell Close

Home to the memorial for victims of a Fenian bomb

Notes:

5. St John's Gate, Clerkenwell Road

Since 1504, this has been the location of St John's Gate

Notes:

6. Poirot's London Pad, Charterhouse Square

Where in London is Whitehaven Mansions, Hercule Poirot's home?

Notes:

7. A Garden with a Gruesome Past, West Smithfield Garden

A place of public hangings and statues with added fertility

Notes:

8. London's oldest parish church, West Smithfield, London

London's oldest parish church is St Bartholomew's.

Notes:

9. History of St Sepulchre Church, Church of St Sepulchre, London
Church of St Sepulchre, gruesome medieval links with Old Bailey.

Notes:

10. Oldest house in the City, 41/42 Cloth Fair, London
This house has survived over 400 years and still looks great!

Notes:

11. Charterhouse, Charterhouse Square, Smithfield, London
This is a historic complex of buildings dating back to 1300's

Notes: