

Author: JeremyT

Once home to the incredible Charles Dickens

1. Charles Dickens Childhood Home, 16 Bayham Street

Once home to a very young Charles Dickens

Notes:

2. Dickens 1st Love lived here, 1 Lombard Street, London

This was the home of Charles Dicken's first love, Maria Beadnell

Notes:

3. Oliver Twist's Literary Home, 48 Doughty Street, off Gray's Inn Road

Home to the 'Charles Dickens Museum' and 'Oliver Twist'

Notes:

4. An Art & Print Treasure, Bride Lane, Fleet Street

The worlds foremost printing and graphic arts library

Notes:

5. Author Wilkie Collins lived here, 90 Gloucester Place (now 65)

Wilkie Collins, celebrated Victorian fiction author, lived here.

Notes:

6. Bleeding Heart Yard, Bleeding Heart Yard, Hatton Garden, London

The location of the urban legend of the Bleeding Heart murder.

Notes:

7. George Inn, Borough High Street, Southwark

This is London's only surviving galleried coaching inn, 1676

Notes:

8. History of Golden Square, Golden Square, London

The statue in Golden Square was accidentally won at auction.

Notes:

9. Patrick Stewart's friendly Ghost, 18 Suffolk Street

Ghost of John Baldwin Buckstone who likes a good performance

Notes:

10. Rules Restaurant, Londons oldest, 35 Maiden Lane, Covent Garden

Rules was established by Thomas Rule in 1798, London's oldest.

Notes:

11. Seven Stars, 53-54 Carey St, City of London

Charles Dickens was a regular here, early 20th century.

Notes:

12. Simpsons: Home of Chess, 100 Strand, London

The spiritual home of Chess: Scene of The Immortal Game

Notes:

13. St Barnabas & the Penny Chute, 1 Greek Street, Soho, London

Charity for Women with a coin pipe for accepting donations.

Notes:

14. St Luke's & Christ Church, Sydney Street, Kensington, London

This is the church where Charles Dickens was married in.

Notes:

15. St Marylebone Church, Marylebone Road

This is where Browning and Barratt secretly married.

Notes:

16. The Boot, 116 Cromer St, London

Charles Dickens was a regular, as was Kenneth Williams

Notes:

17. The Eagle, 2 Shepherdess Walk, Islington, London

The pub featured in the Pop Goes the Weasel Nursery Rhyme.
Notes:

18. The Famous Berners Street Hoax, 54 Berners Street, London

This is the location of one of the world's most famous hoaxes.

Notes:

19. The Grapes, 76 Narrow Street, Limehouse, London

Dickens based 'Our Mutual Friend' on this pub.

Notes:

20. The Lamb and Flag, 33, Rose Street

Opened in 1627, the oldest tavern in central Covent Garden

Notes:

21. The Lamb's Snob Screens, 94 Lamb's Conduit Street, Holborn, London

One of the few Victorian pubs with 'snob screens'.

Notes:

22. The London Apprentice, 62 Church Street, Isleworth, Middlesex

A historic river pub with royal connections.

Notes:

23. The Pillars of Hercules, 7 Greek St, London

This pub is famous is named in Dicken's Tale of Two Cities.

Notes:

24. The Roman Bath, 5 Strand Lane, London

The Roman Bath, open to the public for centuries

Notes:

25. The Spaniard's Inn, Spaniards Road, Hampstead

Famous for being Dick Turpin's local - the 'Spaniard's Arms'

Notes:

26. Trafalgar Tavern, *Park Row, Greenwich, London

Magnificent Regency style pub was built in 1837

Notes:

27. Vincent Van Gogh lived here, *87 Hackford Road, Lambeth, London

Vincent Van Gogh lived here for 2 years as a young art dealer.

Notes:

28. Ye Old White Horse, *2 St Clements Lane, Holborn

A 200 year old pub with 16th century cellars still in use.

Notes: